

Authentic IndoChine Cuisine

The Golden Triangle

The Golden Triangle is in Chiang Rai Province, far north of Thailand, stretching for thousands of square miles of the region extends deep into the meeting place of Mekong and Ruak river further into Laos, Myanmar and Vietnam.

The original cuisine of the Golden Triangle is probably the peasant cuisine of Thailand. Archaeology has recently discovered that the metal working cultures of the central plain of Thailand date back to at least 3000 BC, and spread east across the mountains into Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

Golden Triangle food is internationally famous. Whether chilli-hot or comparatively bland, harmony is the guiding principle behind each dish. Originally, the cuisine reflected the characteristics of a waterborne lifestyle. Aquatic animals, plants and herbs were major ingredients. Large chunks of meat were eschewed.

Rice is the staple grain of the Golden Triangle where paddy fields are along the Mekong and Ruak river. It is the original crop that caused the conversion from hunter-gatherer to subsistence farmer in this area. Garlic and ginger are commonly used in cuisine, as are chili peppers, with the substitutes fish sauce. There are two additional unique flavorings for Golden Triangle cuisine which are galangal and lemongrass which make the cuisines of the region.
